

LIFE-FORCE ENERGY AND PLACE

Tom Bender

20 October 2015

The life-force energy behind acupuncture, martial arts, yoga, faith healing and other practices in many cultures also plays a vital role in our relationship with our surroundings.

FENG SHUI CALENDARS, w/Gary Braasch.

A best-seller for twelve years, the photographs powerfully illustrated the principles of feng shui discussed in the text for each month. Maybe an e-book soon?

FLICKR/QIBENDER - My Flickr site, with 23 albums and 1778 pix of life-force energy, design, and community, from around the world.

PLACES TOUCHING SPIRIT, 2006.

Our places can be profoundly empowered, and affect our lives in totally different ways, when we understand the separate (yet of course, connected!) primal consciousness that links every fiber of all things through the faster-than-light media of qi energy.

SACRED ART, SACRED SPACE, 2006.

Working from a base in the realms of qi rather than just our material realm, the meaning and process of all we do changes dramatically.

IN-DEPTH OVERVIEWS:

"PORTALS TO THE SPIRIT WORLD," SHAMAN'S DRUM, Sept. '01.

Summary article covering Silence, Song & Shadows and Building with the Breath of Life.

SILENCE, SONG & SHADOWS, 2000.

A compelling affirmation of the role of the sacred in our lives and surroundings, the energetic connections between people and place, and the importance of our surroundings to our health. A visual and poetic introduction to the energetics of place in other cultures and in our own culture today. 96pp, 12" x 12", full color, richly illustrated with original photographs.

BUILDING WITH THE BREATH OF LIFE, 2000.

The definitive introduction to the field of energetic design. This companion volume to Silence, Song and Shadows provides the detailed historical, conceptual, and how-to information for working with chi energy in our surroundings. Over 300 illustrations.

BUILDING WITH THE BREATH OF LIFE, 2000.

The 1999 draft chapters (no pictures) available on this website of Building with the Breath of Life.

BUILDING WITH THE BREATH OF LIFE, DVD, Fire River Press, 2003.

"LIFE-FORCE ENERGY IN WORLD CULTURES", BOL 8 Jan. 1999. An index to over 65 cultures world-wide where life-force energy has been recognized as the basis of the entire culture – healing arts, martial arts, architecture, arts, relation with the sacred.

WORKING WITH LIFE-FORCE ENERGY IN DESIGN:

THE CAVE TEMPLES OF INDIA, DVD, Fire River Press, 2004.

Embodied in these rock-cut temples and sculptures more than 1500 years old is a knowledge of how our universe operates that dwarfs our present comprehension and opens the door for our culture's next stage of growth. The sculptures in these temples employ an unlikely palette of tools - empowered geometry, intention, passion, stillness, and coherence - to access and work in the realms of life-force energy (chi or prana). These elements enable the sculptures to act as sophisticated tools for chakra opening, healing, and direct connection with the sacred and other consciousness.

"LESSONS FROM THE OSUN SHRINE, NIGERIA" PPT from 2014 ARCHITECTURE, CULTURE, AND SPIRITUALITY SYMPOSIUM (ACS6), Toronto CA. June '14. The tools, and learning those tools, for working in the energy realms, have some mind-opening abilities, in their roots in other cultures.

HOSPICE: GATEWAYS OF LIFE AND DEATH, Oct. 2000. HEALING MINISTRY, Nov-Dec '01. Death has been one of those "we-don't talk about" elements of our culture. A study here of how a deeper approach to facilities that house the wonderful new institution of hospice can deepen our lives.

This article of mine was the first publication in the U.S., forty+ years ago (whew!), to assert that there was a geophysical basis to feng-shui, and that it was more than folklore. Still gives a worthwhile perspective on dimensions of feng-shui new to our culture.
